Oscar Extravaganza

Best Actor nominee George Clooney brought his girlfriend Elisabetta Canalis to celebrate his movie Up in the Air.

From ultra chic gowns to opulent jewellery to fine tuxes—this year's Academy Awards were nothing short of glamorous. Oh, and the movies were great too! The show made history with Kathryn Bigelow being the first woman director to win in 82 years for The Hurt Locker. Bigelow also managed to defeat her ex-husband, James Cameron, who was favored to win for Avatar, in not only the director's category, but for Best Picture as well.

Charlize Theron sparked a lot of chatter over the rosettes on her Christian Dior dress.

Presenter Demi Moore looked gorgeous in her Atelier Versace gown. Moore arrived solo without her husband Ashton Kutcher.

British actress Carey Mulligan, in Prada, had her first real taste of the Oscars as a nominee for Best Actress for her great performance in An Education.

It came as no surprise that Mo'Nique, decked out in Tadashi Shoji and Chopard jewels, took the Best Supporting Actress award home for Precious.

Sandra Bullock, in a stunning dress by Marchesa, highlighted her career by winning Best Actress for her role as Leigh Anne Tuohy in The Blind Side, a role she almost passed on.

For interviews with Sandra Bullock, Matt Damon and Kathryn Bigelow, go to www.tribute.ca.

Cameron Diaz, in a dazzling gown by Oscar de la Renta and Cartier jewels, is a red carpet staple at the Oscars although she's never been nominated.

Matt Damon, with wife Luciana, was nominated for Best Supporting Actor for Invictus but lost out to Christoph Waltz.

Still riding off his Twilight fame, Taylor Lautner presented an award with co-star Kristen Stewart.

Christoph Waltz solidified his Hollywood status with his Best Supporting Actor win for Inglourious Basterds.

Vera Farmiga, nominated for a Best Supporting Actress award for Up in the Air, wore a vibrant fuchsia Marchesa gown.

Kathryn Bigelow made Oscar history by being the first woman director to win Best Director in 82 years for The Hurt Locker.

Jeff Bridges' singing talent and acting skills in Crazy Heart won him Best Actor.

Presenter Elizabeth Banks shone on the red carpet in a gray, flowing Versace dress.

Jennifer Lopez made sure she was noticed on the red carpet wearing a light lavender Armani Privé gown with side train and Bulgari and Cartier jewels.

Ryan Reynolds didn't bring his wife, Scarlett Johansson, to the ceremony but was on hand to present his good pal Sandra Bullock's nomination for Best Actress.

Zac Efron was happy to lend some eye candy to the red carpet while taking in the glam atmosphere.

Kristen Stewart, who presented with Taylor Lautner, ditched her rock wear for a navy Monique Lhuillier dress. Stewart will appear next in The Runaways with Dakota Fanning.

Avatar star and presenter Zoe Saldana, in a long, ruffled Givenchy Haute Couture gown, cheered on her movie, which has become the most successful film of all time.

Penélope Cruz, who wore a Donna Karan gown and Chopard jewels, was nominated in the Supporting Actress category for her role in Nine.

Amanda Seyfried looked stunning in a gray Armani Privé gown. The Letters to Juliet star presented with Miley Cyrus.

Star-inspired prom!

Prom is on its way and it's time to pick the perfect dress. From pastel colours to mixed prints to blossoming florals—spring is popping back into fashion just in time for your big night.

—Toni-Marie Ippolito

Oscar-nominated actress Anna Kendrick shines in a bright yellow dress, which makes sense since she's becoming one of Hollywood's It girls for her roles in Twilight and Up in the Air.

Author and fashion designer Lauren Conrad looks sweet in a short, strapless belted dress—an easy style that looks super cute.

America Ferrera is packing in her Ugly Betty wardrobe but she'll be hitting the big screen with Our Family Wedding and will be the voice of Astrid in How to Train Your Dragon.

Country star Taylor Swift is on top of her game and right on trend with the classic one-shoulder dress. If you want to get noticed, red always makes a statement.

Camilla Belle is spot-on with this floral print dress. She's currently filming a Latin spin on the Jane Austen classic, Sense and Sensibility, in which two spoiled sisters who have been left penniless after their father's death are forced to move in with their estranged aunt in East Los Angeles.

She may be starring as a punk rock 'n' roller in The Runaways with Kristen Stewart, but Dakota Fanning is super chic in this short black, peek-a-boo fabric floral detailed dress.

Kristen Stewart goes for the long and elegant look while promoting New Moon. If you've been wondering why she's sporting a punk-rock hairstyle, it's because she's starring as '70s rocker Joan Jett (of "I Love Rock 'N' Roll" song fame) in The Runaways.

Emma Roberts gets into the spirit of spring at a movie premiere with a flowing floral print. Watch for her to appear next in Memoirs of a Teenage Amnesiac.

Love Story

Lost star Emilie de Ravin gets romantic with Robert Pattinson in Remember Me

Australian actress Emilie de Ravin has jumped from the Lost small screen to the big screen in the upcoming romantic drama Remember Me with super hunky co-star Robert Pattinson.

De Ravin recently spoke to Tribute's Toni-Marie Ippolito about filming this love story, and what Robert Pattinson is really like to work with.

What did you first think about this love story?

DE RAVIN: I fell in love as soon as I read it. It's one of those few and far between scripts that you read that you're like, "This is just something that I would just kill to be a part of."

I understand there were about 180 women that were up for the part and you got it!

DE RAVIN: It's pretty amazing. Also, they were going in a lot of different directions with the look for Ally to start with and sort of ended up, I think, the furthest from where they started [Laughs]. I'm happy though.

It looks like it's a really intense, emotional story.

DE RAVIN: The premise for the movie is really a romantic tragedy. My character and Rob's character both have dealt with tragedy in our family and our past and we sort of meet unexpectedly, fall in love unexpectedly, and then the way the circumstances that we meet basically threaten to tear us apart. It's really about just treasuring and appreciating every moment you have with loved ones because you can never go back.

What do you think it is about these romantic tragedies that we just love so much? They're heartwrenching!

DE RAVIN: They are heartwrenching! And for this film specifically I think it's just the reality of this story that people can (relate to), whether or not they've been through something tragic in their life. It's not dealt with in a fluffy movie way, which I think a lot of stories are. It's really gritty and it's very honest, especially with the relationship with Tyler and Ally. You can actually say, "Yeah, I've been like that in a relationship before. That's kind of how it is." It's all just down-to-earth and real.

There were a lot of paparazzi around while you were filming because of Robert's fame from Twilight. How did you guys deal with that?

DE RAVIN: Um, yeah, it took a little getting used to! We really shot the majority of the film on location in Manhattan so there were just people everywhere. It got a little hectic at times! The first day I was so rt of like,

"Oh my God. How am I going to focus?" You feel all these eyes on you and you become very self-conscious about what's going on as opposed to being in your own little world of the character.

What's it like working with Robert Pattinson?

DE RAVIN: He's such a nice, genuine, great guy as a person. And you know that's always nice when you're working with someone you get along with. [He's] very giving. We sort of worked on stuff a lot together and we'd talk about things and really developed our characters together as much as we could. And that's a real give-and-take thing if you've got one person not wanting to do that and one that does—it creates a bit of conflict. But we were both sort of on the same page with everything, which was great.

How do you know things would work out well with the both of you?

DE RAVIN: I guess you don't really know a lot of the time, do you? It's an interesting question because it is something that I think comes more from really just getting along with that person as opposed to sort of someone who really annoys you!

I LOVE ROCK 'N' ROLL

Kristen Stewart and Dakota Fanning talk about starring as real-life '70s rock stars Joan Jett and Cherie Currie in The Runaways.

—By Robin Lynch

Kristen Stewart ditches vampires for guitars in the upcoming biopic of legendary musician Joan Jett in The Runaways.

Co-starring Dakota Fanning as Cherie Currie, The Runaways—directed by Floria Sigismondi—tells the story of two friends, Jett and Currie, as they rise from rebellious Southern California kids to legendary rock stars.

What did both of you see in Joan Jett and Cherie Currie that made you want to make this movie?

FANNING: I did it because I really just loved the character of Cherie, and not really knowing about The Runaways. It was just kind of reading the script and that was my introduction. It was really great and I just wanted to be able to play that out and live her life for a little bit.

Kristen, did you see any parallels between you and Joan Jett?

STEWART: Yeah. We have been professionals from a young age, which is hard. The biggest adversities I face are bloggers, and she had people throwing bottles in her face saying, "Sit down you ugly loudmouth." But I think she's really cool. She's really honest. She demands to live her life the way she'd like to. She's just a very smart and inspiring person.

You also did some research with a live band.

FANNING: Floria's [Sigismondi] husband is in a band called The Living Things and I just went to their home studio and sang some of the songs with them to kind of see what it would feel like. You can never really feel what it's going to be like until you're actually filming.

How did you prepare to learn Joan's style?

STEWART: We all had two weeks where we had band practice. They played the song that we recorded. I think there were like five or six that we did that we had to have down. It was exhausting, especially with the guitar. I would be exhausted at the end of a rehearsal and she'd (Fanning) be letting out a sigh, and I'm like, "Ah, my shoulders are killing me!" But it was fun. There's an okay amount of footage that you can see them in their performances but they're all sort of fuzzy. But it's just like copying.

Sexuality plays a big part between Joan and Cherie. Was it difficult for you two to recreate?

STEWART: Sure, because nowadays we're like younger kids. I mean, while there was a sexual revolution going on [back then], it's had an effect on us now. So people feel much more comfortable at a young age doing stuff like that but these girls, they really were the ones to rebel first. It wasn't normal for girls to be sexually aggressive in any way.

How does the responsibility in playing a real-life person compared to a beloved fictional character like Bella from Twilight?

STEWART: Bella's effect on the world wasn't as great as Joan's. Obviously, I never got to meet Bella. But when it becomes personal, it becomes my responsibility to not destroy what people are going to take from the most important part of my friend's life. If we hadn't told the story right people wouldn't know who The Runaways were. People in our generation don't know The Runaways. So because they're going to see them through us it's a much different experience than making an original, fictional story.

Dakota, this is a different side of you that we've not seen before. Are you concerned what your fans will think?

FANNING: I'm not nervous because I think the people who are true fans or really enjoy the work that you do will understand the choices that you're making and why you make those choices. I'm getting older now and I want my career, and the movies that I do, to get older with me and I hope that everyone can do that with me.

KRISTEN STEWART - Aries, born April 9, 1990, Colorado

Born on a full moon, Kristen is able to bring “just the right blend of ferocity and feeling to the role of Bella Swan,” according to a Rolling Stone review of her work in Twilight. Feisty Aries ladies are known for being precocious, and Kristen began her acting career at age 8. It’s also a sign that loves to live on the edge, as witness her breakout (role) as in the thriller Panic Room. But it’s her Libra moon sign that gives her an other-worldly beauty. And it helps her realize millions of young fans’ ultimate romantic dream, as it’s now official she’s dating her Twilight series co-star, Taurus dreamboat Robert Pattinson. Look for her to keep fulfilling her early potential throughout 2010.

STAR STRUCK

What the stars have planned for you

ARIES (March 21 - April 20)

Travel is off the agenda, but who cares? It’s party central chez vous, with only A-listers on the guest list. And there also are helpful sorts who support you in unexpected ways, including one special someone. With spring’s arrival, you’re revved for action. Attend a brainstorming session or two, and prepare to make big changes.

TAURUS (April 21 - May 21)

Answer all casting calls now, in both love and career. Circulate your resumé and you may be called upon to read for a very big part. Whatever your situation, you’re ready to star in your own true-life romance in April. Fortunately, your other half is on the same page when it comes to the relationship.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)

You’re busy like a bee all month! Bonus: the activity helps keep the cash flowing in the right direction. A career dilemma could have you flustered, but don’t tell anyone to buzz off. By the full moon on March 29 you begin work on a whole new script on the romance front. Your social life will make for some interesting sub-plots.

CANCER (June 22 - July 22)

Spring fever strikes! You’re all fired up, but where to go? While not exactly living on the edge now, you may take more risks. Whether it’s a travel bargain or a career move, follow your common sense to make the best decisions. More than one friend needs your assistance and you come through for them.

LEO (July 23 - August 23)

Fresh horizons entice you, but a big trip isn’t in the budget. Anyway, you wouldn’t want to miss an enticing offer of the professional kind. You can always sign up for a new class; it will broaden your view nicely. And there’s always a new or rekindled romance to whisk you out of the everyday.

VIRGO (August 24 - September 23)

Money matters, especially how you hang on to it. Some far-seeing advice could help you find a tax or other financial loophole. It’s also a good time to ask for a raise, so rally your ambition and make a push. You definitely need a belated spring break! A getaway à deux in April provides space for love to bloom.

LIBRA (September 24 - October 23)

The Oscars may be over, but those around you continue to turn in statue-worthy performances. Resist the urge to add to the drama and things will soon be back on an even keel. Meanwhile, launch new projects, spiff up your image – you’re pure gold now. A close relationship is ready to go to the next level.

SCORPIO (October 24 - November 22)

Now that Mars is finally onside, your career picks up speed. It will be a while until it hits the velocity you want, though, so be patient. Your love life takes on a soap-opera quality, with many twists and turns of plot. One has a sizzling romantic bent, which helps you live up to your reputation.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 - December 21)

Recent changes to the love scenario prove to your liking. You’re getting both more support and autonomy – just the kind of plot twist you like. Find inventive ways to break the routine in April. And do sidestep any disagreements at work. You’ll only make matters worse by pointing out who’s at fault.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 20)

Last-minute rewrites at work put an extra burden on you. You may have to bring work home or prove yourself in some way. Put your shoulder to it and rewards will be substantial. A growing bond with someone close is thrilling but not without its challenges. By mid-April a major roadblock is removed.

AQUARIUS (January 21 - February 18)

There’s a strong sense of starring in your own movie, with a social scene that feels like one big Hollywood premiere! Remember to keep your options open with someone new on the scene, though. By the end of April you’re wondering how to put old alliances to work for you. A tip points you towards an enticing travel bargain.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)

You’re tempted to play hooky. Spend some quality time with your pals, but don’t max the credit card. By April, and on cue, you may be asked to move to the head of the class at work. You attract people who want to help you succeed, but many do it through tough love. You can make solid gains.

America's Sweetheart

Sandra Bullock has had a stellar movie year. To cap things off, the star gained many accolades during awards season. It says a lot about an actress that she has the guts to show up to receive an award for Worst Actress of the Year (in Bullock's case, it was for All About Steve) at the famous Razzie Awards and to then turn around and be equally humble and poised while accepting an Oscar for Best Actress during the Oscars—in one weekend!

She takes it all in stride—Bullock is a master at handling Hollywood and being a star. She manages to stay out of the tabs, and we've rarely heard about her being embroiled in controversy. She is a favorite amongst many, and this was proved by her huge box-office success last year.

What's her secret? Bullock is happily married to motorcycle enthusiast Jesse James, for one, and admits she has always put herself first and doesn't worry what anyone else thinks. "I never did anything according to what anyone else wanted," Bullock has said. "That's why I think I am happy. I do everything 100 per cent—even my stupidest missteps. I know when I'm getting ready to mess up, I'm going to do it full-on. I look back at some things and go, 'I can't believe I did that, but I know I can make amends, and we can all laugh at it, because it's my mistake.'"

Bullock got her major breakthrough with Speed, costarring Keanu Reeves. She's been in many movies since then, but it was her role in Miss Congeniality that got her noticed as a Queen of Comedy. More followed, and with last year's The Proposal and The Blind Side, she hit major player status by generating big box office numbers.

At 45, Bullock is right on track with balancing her personal life and her career. Now, with her recent Oscar win for Best Actress for The Blind Side, there's no doubt more dramatic roles will follow. "I have to fight every single day to live my true life. I don't ever want to come home saying, 'I should have spoken my mind,'" Bullock said, or "I shouldn't have let someone say something that I didn't feel was right."
